BITS PRESS RELEASE

Business IT Source is now a part of Computacenter, one of the world's leading Value Added-Resellers.

BUFFALO GROVE, IL, July 13, 2022 — I'm excited to share that Business IT Source has become part of Computacenter, one of the world's independent technology partners. Computacenter is a public company listed on London's FTSE with a revenue of approx. $10bn and employing 18,000 people worldwide, including 1,400 in the United States. The company has a fantastic track record of long-term evolution and is trusted by some of the world's leading companies. Computacenter has powerful partnerships with all the top-tier vendors in the industry and is financially secure with no net debt.

Over time, we'll be able to offer our customers a much broader range of capabilities - Computacenter has over 13,000 technical staff and one of the best international capabilities of any VAR in the world. BITS will continue to be run by the existing leadership as a separate business unit and you will see only small changes. For example, while keeping our name, we'll introduce the Computacenter branding scheme in the logo. The BITS legal entity also remains the same, so existing trading terms and transactions are unaffected. There are also no changes to the people you work with at BITS.

As we integrate with the rest of Computacenter and give our customers access to new capabilities, you have our commitment to maintaining the same standard of service as always. Please don't hesitate to contact me directly if you want to discuss this change further.

Thank you for your trust and support.
